

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY
OLD DOMINION UNIVERSITY

Multiple Position Openings

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY, INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY,
PSYCHOLOGY LECTURER

The Department of Psychology at Old Dominion University invites applications to begin August of 2019 for three tenure-track positions and one full-time, non-tenure track position:

- Assistant Professor of Clinical Psychology
- Assistant or Associate Professor of Industrial and Organizational Psychology
- Assistant Professor of Industrial and Organizational Psychology
- Lecturer of Psychology

All applicants must hold a PhD in Psychology or provide evidence that the PhD will be completed prior to August 2019. Applicants for the clinical psychology position must hold a doctoral degree from an APA-accredited clinical psychology program or provide evidence that the PhD will be completed prior to August 2019.

Candidates at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate strong potential for developing an independent and outstanding program of research and strong accomplishments in teaching. Candidates whose research program shows strong potential for obtaining external funding will be preferred. Appointment at the Associate level requires a record of outstanding success.

Responsibilities for all tenure-track positions include: (a) teaching undergraduate courses to support the core undergraduate curriculum, including relevant online courses, (b) teaching graduate courses, (c) conducting high quality, programmatic research, (d) seeking research funding, and (e) mentoring M.S. and Ph.D. students.

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY: TENURE-TRACK ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE LEVEL

We have a particular interest in applicants who study topics related to: diversity issues, multi- or cross-cultural psychology, health disparities, or underrepresented/understudied populations. Preference will be given to candidates with a research program that complements and expands current Clinical faculty research.

Preference will be given to applicants with an interest in, and/or a record of teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in the area of Research and Quantitative Methods, Health Psychology, Social Psychology, and/or Developmental Psychology.

The successful candidate is also expected to serve as a core faculty member to support the Virginia Consortium Program in Clinical Psychology, an APA-accredited clinical Ph.D. program offered jointly by ODU, Norfolk State University, and Eastern Virginia Medical School. For more information about the Virginia Consortium, visit <http://www.sci.odu.edu/vcpcp/>.

INDUSTRIAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY: (1) TENURE-TRACK ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE LEVEL, AND (2) TENURE-TRACK ASSISTANT LEVEL

For the Industrial and Organizational positions, for both levels, preference will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in the following areas: personnel selection, performance appraisal and management, workplace technology, teams, and occupational health.

PSYCHOLOGY LECTURER

Duties include instructing four courses per semester in support of our online and on campus undergraduate degree program (including Quantitative or Research Methods courses), undergraduate advising/mentoring, and departmental service. Preference will be given to applicants with a record of teaching undergraduate Research or Quantitative Methods, and the expertise to develop online and on campus undergraduate courses.

ABOUT OLD DOMINION UNIVERSITY

ODU's Department of Psychology is in the College of Sciences and includes 31 full-time faculty members, approximately 1200 undergraduate majors, and 75 students in our graduate programs. In addition to participation in the Virginia Consortium Program in Clinical Psychology, the department offers a terminal Master's degree in Experimental Psychology and Ph.D. degrees in Applied Psychological Sciences, Human Factors, and Industrial and Organizational Psychology. The clinical Ph.D. program received 7-year accreditation from the American Psychological Association in 2013. Faculty research is currently funded by NIAAA, NSF, ARI, NASA, and various other entities. Areas of research collaboration among faculty in the Psychology Department include health, diversity, and technology.

Old Dominion University is located in the Hampton Roads area on the Chesapeake Bay in southeastern Virginia. The area is a regional center for military, medical, and scholarly research. Old Dominion University is also home to the Virginia Modeling, Analysis and Simulation Center which focuses on the use of modeling and simulation technologies for research, education, and economic development. Other local institutions that have a history of research collaboration with the department include: Eastern Virginia Medical School, NASA-Langley Research Center, Naval Medical Center Portsmouth, Norfolk State University, and the Human Performance Center of the US Navy. For more information about the department, visit <http://sci.odu.edu/psychology/>.

Old Dominion University and the College of Sciences are committed to inclusive excellence, recognizing that diversity enhances and enriches our educational mission, employment experience, and community engagement. We seek candidates whose research, teaching, and/or service experiences have prepared them to fulfill our commitment to inclusion. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, national origin, genetics, disability, age, or veteran status.

All applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vita (including a list of courses taught and preferred potential courses within the applicant's areas of expertise and training), three letters of reference, teaching statement, and evidence of teaching experience or training (e.g. student opinion surveys, example syllabi, and/or professional development experiences). Applicants for tenure-track positions should also submit a research statement. Application materials should be submitted at <https://jobs.odu.edu>.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.